

Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) and University Education: Challenge of Global Interaction in A New Era

The globalizing society demands broader perspective and more deepened knowledge among us all than ever. The Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) are tasks to be tackled with in cooperation with many stakeholders. Universities are expected to play a crucial and challenging role in such a new circumstance. In this workshop is discussed the global perspective education and possibility of future cooperation based on the practices of partner institutions of Kobe University.

■ Date: March 4–5, 2019 ( AM 9.30–)

■ Venue: Conference Room, F2 Building A

Graduate School of Human Development and Environment, Kobe University
(3–11, Tsurukabuto, Nada, Kobe City, Hyogo Japan, 657–8501)

■ Welcome Remark

Dean Prof Shuichi Okada, Graduate School of Human Development and Environment

■ Challenge of Kobe University

Prof Koji Matsuoka, “SDGs and Practice of Education for Sustainable Development (ESD)”

Prof Tomoko Ochiai, “Global Studies Program(GSP) of Faculty of Global Human Science”

■ Visions and Practices of Partner Universities

Prof Andi Amri, Ex-Director of International Office, Hasanuddin University (Indonesia)

Prof Karl Ian Cheng Chua (Philippines)

Director of Japan Studies Center, Ateneo de Manila University

Prof Oranuch Puangsuk (Thailand)

International Education, Ubon Ratchathani University

Prof Raja Farhana Raja Khairuddin (Malaysia)

International and Mobility Centre, Universiti Pendidikan Sultan Idris

Prof Wang Subin, (China)

International Exchange Center, East China Normal University

Prof Trudy Corrigan (Ireland)

School of Policy and Practice in the Institute of Education, Dublin City University

■ Organized and Sponsored by:

Institute of Human Development Support, International Cooperation Committee

Graduate School of Human Development and Environment, Kobe University

Faculty of Global Human Science, Kobe University

Organizing Committee email: otak@kobe-u.ac.jp